Near the close of the session I gave-out an interview to the press, in which I took a stand independent of any opposition to the Government merely for opposition's sake. I came to the conclusion, after long thinking on the subject, that there is a lot of falsehood in politics, and that the near future will see the parties forced to drop slander and accusations of deliberate wrong from their campaign literature.

I took the stand that a great population is what we want in Alberta, a population away into the millions, and I believe that we can secure that quicker by leaving charges of graft out of the newspaper reports and standing by every man and measure that works for the good of the Province.

This is not a Dominion election.

This is not a Dominion election, and we are not concerned with any question of Dominion policy. We want the best things for Alberta that can be secured, and among those things, first of all, comes railway construction. Upon this the Government and the Opposition are at agreement. The Government is sparing no effort to build the roads, a great system, up and down the Province. Doubtless the Opposition, if it were in power, would do the same thing, and that fact proves that as between man and man one has a monopoly of good ideas. The fact that we are to get the fact that we are to get the fact that we are to get the conders is far and away fore important than any political question.

Our Province ought to be governed by business principles and important than any political question.

The variety of the province ought to be govered by bounness principles and not by politics. This is the idea for which I am fighting. I want, as far as possible, to eliminate politics from our system, so that when we come to an election it will be merely a question of passing upon the business done. If it is good, very well; it it is bad, put in new men. Under the old system of politics, regardless of whether the work of the administration has been weefully bad or remarkably good, the Opposition make it out universally bad, rotten in fact, and denounces the men in power as incompetent and dishonest. This is bad in this day of the world, and my aim is not only to get as many people as possible for Alberta, but to get over the disease that has done the cause of good government so men in jury. I am not a Liberal, understand. I have not go neith only "Liberal camp." I do not believe in the election of a Legislature every man of which has pleaged himself, to support the Government wherever I approve their policies, just as I have done. With me it is Alberta first, my own interests and the interests of my constituency second, and to the devil and good. If not, I will devote myself more strictly to my own private business.

So far as party platforms are concerned there is hittle difference.

strictly to my own private business.

So far as party platforms are concerned there is little difference between them in the demands for practical, present good, not enough difference, in fact, to justify a landside in either direction. It is to be presumed that whoever is elected will continue the practical policies that are in force, many of which I; working in committee with members of the Government, have planned and inaugurated. I subscribe to these policies, to the principal planks of both parties to the railway policy, to the control of our school lands, to the control of all our lands, however recognizing that as fast set he lands are settled they will become a provincial asset, and I ut the questions of immigration and railways in the forefront.

I will work for these, for the continuance of all good policies, for any sound policy from whatever source, and I will cry out against wrong-doing and dishonesty wherever or whenever I.

I will work for thee extension of the phone system throughout my constituency, for a court house at our centre, for every benefit that can be secured, and upon this platform I am confident those who honored me before will agree with the and give me the election.

Very truly and sincerely, CORNELIUS HIEBERT

The maral then is "raise nothing less than a No, 2 or use flour from an inferior wheat or take the exchange as it is now, getting less flour of good quality." Again a large portion of wheat raised in the district is White Winter. This wheat seems to give satisfaction from a farmers view point. This again brings us to a consideration which is at present occupying our attention, that of finding a market for pastry flour which is ground out of purely winter wheat. This flour while not recommended for bread making is by far superior in quality for pastry and fanor which is ground out of purely winter wheat. This flour while not recommended for bread making is by far superior in quality for pastry and fanor whaking and is less expensive because of the small amount of shortening needed to produce same result, and natural flavor being retained. It is this class of goods that saving on freight can be effected, and only in so far as patrons take advantage of it will they realize the benefit. We are further introducing it at B.C. points where repeated orders are sent in of larger size, showing that the article is doing its work.

Allow me through the medium of our auper to thank the public for heir loyal support which they have diven me in the past year. It is only at that credit be given the patrons who have shown their appreciation in health of the business by their liberal stronage.

While we have kept comparitively live regarding development of this dustry and its business, yet there is no reason why the public may not move the difficulties under which business has been established in this line and also know that there is a steady cowth of trade.

Yawning Fish.

The mouth of the turbot is twisted to one side, rather as if it had belonged to a round fails which some one had accidentally tred on and squashed half fat. The yawn begins at the lips, which open as if to sack in water, which open as if to sack in water. It is seen that this is going to be a real, genuline fish's yawn. But the yawn goes on, works through the back of its head, distending the plates of the skull, and comment, and then, with a kind of stretching shiver of its back, the fish flattens out again. — London Mail.
